

The secret of Beethoven is that his music feels and moves more like the experiential interior of an actual person.